Stanley Ward Electrocuted While at Work on Bridge

Young man killed instantly when cable strikes high tension wire — Efforts to revive him continued for over three hours — Funeral services Wednesday afternoon.

Funeral services for Stanley Ward, 24, electrocuted while at work Sunday, were held Wednesday afternoon from the MacDowell Funeral Home, Front street. The Rev. John V. Axtell of the Presbyterian Church officiated at the funeral services. Bearers were all young friends of the deceased. They were Clyde and Jerry Vine, Paul and Robert Hallet, Fred Wheeler and Bernard Lindsley.

The untimely death of this young man came as he was busy with other workmen of the E. W. Foley, Inc., bridge contractors working on the new bridge. Stanley was working at the water's edge under the Main street bridge holding a cable used to raise and lower a steam hammer. The hammer was held in place by a crane located on Main street above and in front of the True Gymnasium. In some manner a cable of the crane touched a 4600 volt high tension line and electrocuted Stanley immediately. He was thrown by the force of electricity into the water.

James Forrest of Elmira who was working with him received a severe shock. Both were brought to the street immediately. Stanley was taken to the Daisy Lunch Room where efforts to revive him were continued for three and one-half hours. Dr. H. E. Auringer, a neighbor, Dr. Stuart Bean and Dr. Amos Stiker worked with the inhalator and used other approved first aid methods to no avail. The doctors were assisted by Bernard Wilson, William Miller, Francis Hill, Frank B. Finnerty, Walter McDermott, Matthew Whitmore, Jr., and others.

It is believed that Stanley was either standing in the water, or had one foot in the water when the full force of the electricity struck him.

Mr. Forrest was taken to his home in Elmira where his condition has been reported as favorable this week. In fact he has been about Addison since the mishap cost the life of his co-worker.

Coroner Dr. James Sanford gave as his official decision that the death was caused by electric shock. There have been other investigations during the week, none of which placed blame for the unfortunate accident. Everyone connected with the E. W. Foley Company and on the local construction project have done all humanly possible to prevent just such mishaps. The company is covered by compensation insurance demanded by the state on all state projects.

Stanley Ward was well known in amateur musical circles here and was a mechanic of some ability. He was often tinkering with motor cars or motorcycles when about the village.

He was born in Addison January 17, 1916 and had lived here throughout his entire life. His parents were the late John Ward and Mrs. Lizzie Lynch Ward. The young man attended Addison High School. Early in life he received a piece of steel in one eye which lost him the use of that eye.

Stanley leaves his mother, of 24 Maple street and a brother Cecil, of Pittsburgh and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Irene Lynch, who lives at the Ward home.

There were many floral tributes from young people with whom he associated as well as from many friends of the family in Addison and vicinity.

There were 78 Republican votes and nine Democratic votes cast in the first district and 144 Republicans and 13 Democratic votes in the second district. The American Labor Party had no votes in either district.

CONDITION CRITICAL

Temporary Bridge Nearly Completed —Traffic Will Be Routed There Soon

Wall and Wombough Street approaches resurfaced with stone and black top—Wood flooring of Temporary bridge is completed — Sidewalks to be installed soon—Work started on main structure.

Construction work is progressing rapidly on the temporary bridge over the Canisteo River, connecting Wall street and Wombough street. This bridge will serve as the detour for Route 17 during the erection of the new steel bridge at the Main street intersection.

As far as can be learned the work is progressing according to the schedule set by the contractor, E. W. Foley Inc., of Brooklyn.

As this is being written carpenters are laying the flooring over the steel work of the temporary bridge. These are planks two inches by six inches and are being laid on the small end which should insure a flooring of lasting strength. This is expected to be completed this week.

The approaches to the temporary bridge on both sides are fast nearing completion. A stone base has been laid on Wall street and Wombough street and this in turn has been covered with a seven inch black top which will bear the brunt of the overland traffic using Route 17 through Addison.

The road on Wall street is 18 feet wide and the Wombough street road, which was graded to meet Main street on a more level line, is 20 feet wide. This road will receive more traffic owing to village travel and also will be used to a greater extent when the temporary bridge is removed and the road is turned back to the village.

The work is being done by A. L. Blades, Hornell for the contractor under state supervision. The new roads will bring a big improvement in the village roads, especially on Wombough street.

The men working on the project have been divided into two shifts for the past week or so as the contractors are anxious to get as much of the work done as possible before cold weather sets in and the steel becomes cold from frost. Electric lights have been installed on the various pieces of equipment and on the projects to assist the workmen.

In addition to the night work, men were employed Sunday in the rain and cold of the day, to drive huge piles under the old Main street bridge to support the weight of the equipment which will be used. It is feared that the present structure is not strong enough to stand the abuse to which it will be subjected in the dismantling process, hence the bracing under the flooring on the north side.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

THE WAR —

Britain was set for invasion the first of this week when fall storms sent glimmering any hopes the Nazis might have had of an immediate landing on the British Isles. Heavy winds blew up choppy seas and made the handling of small boats nearly impossible. While awaiting sea attack the past few days the British have been busy bombing the concentration of barges along the coast from Holland to southern France. British warships have shelled these flotillas also, while storms hinder repairs to smashed boats.

* * *

The highest toll of planes claimed by the British was taken Sunday when they reported 185 visiting bombers and fighters shot down. This heavy blast at the air invaders followed the week of greatest bombing intensity since the war began. The British are now using heavier anti-aircraft guns which force the bombers higher in the skies over London.

* * *

Buckingham Palace has been repeatedly hit by bombs the past week as the Nazis evidently try to break British morale by attacking their king. A survey of damage in London shows about 2,000 buildings have been destroyed by air attacks out of more than a million. Loss of lives has been heavy in numbers, but not large in consideration of the huge population of the great city.

* * *

The Italians starting invasion of Egypt have advanced 40 to 60 miles across desert land. British tactics seemed to be to allow the invaders to stretch out their supply lines and then harass them by bombing attacks and tank columns. Italians admitted Tuesday that British resistance was fierce.

* * *

Ten Douglas DC2 transport planes have been purchased by the British Eastern Air Lines for use as transports. Delivery will be made in about two weeks when E. A. L. gets delivery of more modern planes. The DC2's normally carry 14 passengers.

PLAY SAFE

As the detour to the temporary bridge across the Canisteo River is put into use all motorists should be advised to use great caution. The detour is so crooked the factor of personal safety alone should warn anyone that it is ill advised to drive from Main street to Front when their car is even momentarily out of control.

Indeed the matter of personal safety should be the last one considered by the driver of this detour for he, at least, has a fighting chance to survive a crash while within the steel walls of his machine. Not so, however, the unsuspecting pedestrian who may be crashed against the side of the bridge or run down on a sharp bend.

Worst of all, the victim may be a young child. Children going back and forth to school are compelled to cross this dangerous piece of highway. Minds filled with all the multitudinous adventures of youth, they forget the presence of danger, and it only takes a moment to step incautiously in front of a car speeding around a bend. To kill, or maim a little child would be a terrible penalty to pay for cutting off a few seconds while traveling the few rods of this detour. It would be a memory from which no person with a shred of conscience could ever escape.

Play safe! Drive cautiously over this detour and save lives.

NEW DEAL TURNS TO "DRAFTING"

"We should all note carefully the fact that the current discussions about 'the draft' and 'excess profits tax' are just part of the struggle between our democracy and the New Deal. The New Deal takes to 'drafting' men and money, at the will of a dictator, like a duck takes to water", says Lewis Haney, whose daily column is looked upon with great respect.

Of the many things that the New Deal is responsible for, there is no denying the fact that its right hand should never know what the left one is doing. To us it is all so much hollow talk for one man to refer to the life and living of democracy, when his every purpose is bent on a single mind controlling everything.

If our spokesmen were ready to admit that "politics" not "patriotism" prompted their actions, it would be clearly understood. In the guise of patriotism our people, our industry and our minds are being regimented, and the ideals of democracy have no place in the scheme of things.

Obsessed with the idea that we are in danger of invasion, billions of dollars have been budgeted for war purposes. It is consistent that men and factories come next. Just how politicians arrive at the conclusion that young men will quit their positions to join the service at $21.00 a month, or that the lifeblood of industry can be drained to the welfare of all, is beyond mental endurance.

Decide promptly, but never give any reasons. Your decisions may be right, but your reasons are sure to be wrong.

PIECE OF PAPER COMES ALIVE

The perilousness of the times in which we live may be said to be reflected in the speed with which the Navy department acted in signing contracts for the construction of 200 fighting ships. The contracts were let within two hours after President Roosevelt signed the $5,246,000,000 supplemental defense appropriation bill. Thus the way was paved for transforming what was in reality only a check signed by the American people into the steel and metal that will become the country's floating defenses.

Few Americans will raise their voice in criticism at the amount of money appropriated for the purpose. They know that the world in which we live today is a hazardous one and that a nation as rich as the United States must be well protected if it is not to fall a prize of aggressive neighbors across the seas. Americans are satisfied to pay the expense involved even at the cost of hardships to themselves; and most of them believe that we should be in a position to defend our own country at all times, so that we will not be told in some future emergency that our security is dependent upon the fleet of another nation.

But by the same token, the citizens wish to see the money well spent. They cannot be expected to be naval strategists themselves and they therefore are obliged to put their trust in the men who are supposed to be au courant with modern navy construction and naval defense. We have had sufficient experience with costly errors in naval construction, such as top-heavy destroyers and the like. It is hoped that this huge appropriation, which will come out of the pockets of the hard-pressed American taxpayers will be wisely spent, and will not do a disappearing act, like some appropriations.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

I expect to pass through this world but once. Any good thing, therefore, that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any fellow creature, let me do it now. Let me not defer or neglect it for I shall not pass this way again.

SENATOR MEAD "LET-DOWN"

Few Americans are disposed to disagree with the spirit of the deal which gave 50 of our destroyers to Britain in exchange for bases on this side of the Atlantic. But many are plainly disturbed by the manner in which Mr. Roosevelt consummated the deal without consulting Congress.

Even members of his own party were as much in the dark about the deal as the public in general. This is borne out by the fact this paper a short time ago printed a positive statement by Democratic Senator Mead of Buffalo who emphatically declared there would be no transfer of obsolete destroyers to Britain—that Congress was not in favor of such a plan so it would not go through. Probably Senator Mead was rather taken aback by the executive announcement the deal was signed, sealed and delivered, with some of the ships starting for Canada immediately.

Moreover, it requires no wild stretch of the imagination to arrive at the conclusion Mr. Mead must have been thoroughly disgusted to find himself out on a limb which the President cut off without so much as a "by your leave". No one likes to be in the position of having made a monkey of themselves, and certainly the New York Senator was made to look ridiculous by his statement. Indeed, he must feel thoroughly chagrined, for to think Sen. Mead is not let-down by his own party chief is to impugn he deliberately set out to misinform his constituents by sending out misinformation. This we feel certain the Senator did not intend to do.

Possibly the first reaction in Congress to the destroyer deal was favorable House action on the "Ham" Fish amendment to the Conscription Bill delaying the draft by 60 days. It is quite reasonable to guess many a Democrat member voted for this delay along with the Republican minority with the thought in mind delaying the draft might put brakes on any mad push towards war. Mr. Roosevelt has shown by this and other acts he thinks himself empowered beyond Congress, an idea Congress may set about to revise.

UNCLE SAM DELIVERS NAZI PROPAGANDA FREE

While it is increasingly difficult for the United States to send mail to Germany—what is sent must run the Censor's gauntlet — Germany is flooding this country with propaganda pamphlets which the U. S. Post offices are compelled under the existing International Postal Union rules to distribute without receiving any postage payment whatever, according to Henry Hoke, publisher of the monthly Reporter of Direct Mail Advertising.

Pointing out that the German propaganda minister has a most elaborate mailing list on which is listed every German-American—or everyone tracked down so far—who has relatives living in Germany, Hoke declares:

"It is the rule of the International Postal Union that the country of original transmission retains all the money collected for postage on ordinary mail . . . the country of final distribution delivers free. While Germany has directed mail campaigns into every country already subdued, the major effort is now being expended towards America. All Germany needs to do to get its mail delivered free in the U. S. A. is to print the postage stamps, and that is exactly what it is doing.

The publication goes on to state that every two weeks German Americans on the mailing list receive a 48-page mimeographed bulletin in English headed NEWS FROM GERMANY, and mailed from Steinberg, Bavaria. About once a week there is a bulletin in German, and at spasmodic intervals booklets arrive from various distributing centers in Germany such as Hanover, Emden and Dresden, all preaching the gospel of the wonders of Hitler-ruled Germany.

The Dies committee has indicated it is planning to investigate the misuse of U. S. mails by foreign agents, and Representative Samuel Dickstein of New York is demanding the cancellation of the International Postal convention with Germany, charging that "the United States is paying millions of dollars for propaganda against our own form of government".

MANY NEEDY NEED CLOTHING

The sight of barrels for the reception of shoes in doorways of local shoe stores makes us wonder how long it will be before some ingenious clothing store will follow the style.

The fact that millions of needy folks, both at home and abroad, could use the cast-away clothing would seem to be sufficient for such a venture. Clothing sent abroad, like shoes, will never be worn again by the owners, and so we create a possible new investment. Buying keeps the workers busy, and there are too many now unemployed.

We would wager that the automobile industry wishes it could devise some similar means to get rid of out-moded cars.

OH, YEAH?

ASK The Scientist

If you have a question to ask the scientists, mail it to the New York Press Association, The Castle, Syracuse, N. Y. The Science Board of the Radio Workshop at Syracuse University will answer each week in the columns of this paper those questions considered most interesting and timely.

QUESTION. Since every running automobile gives off huge quantities of carbon monoxide gas, is it not a fact that our atmosphere is at all times so filled with this gas as to be at least slightly injurious?

ANSWER. Many substances can to some extent speed up the change of carbon monoxide to carbon dioxide. As a result, there is not very much carbon monoxide in the air.

Here is what a student in general chemistry did. He assumed that all of the petroleum ever burned in the United States was all converted into carbon monoxide and was still in the atmosphere above the United States and distributed evenly to a height of about 10 miles. If I remember correctly, his report was that there would be about 1/6000 of 1 per cent of carbon monoxide in the air today.

The maximum amount of carbon monoxide in any automobile gas under the worst conditions is only about 7 per cent. In large cities such as New York City and Chicago where the traffic is congested in certain districts, it is quite possible that you might get a headache from that, particularly on a day when the wind is not blowing.—Dr. Albert L. Elder, chemist.

QUESTION. How long do dangerous disease germs live outside the body?

Answer. Many of the dangerous disease germs may live a very long time outside the body in laboratories where they are cultured in media prepared for them. But these lower organisms are very sensitive to temperature changes and humidity changes. They die if dried out. They live but a very short time normally outside of the body unless in some proper medium—Dr. Ernest Reed, geneticist.

QUESTION. What are the most common methods used to supply cities with illuminating gas? Is there any danger of the country running out of natural gas?

ANSWER. The most common ways of supplying illuminating gas are: (1) to get it from the ground, (2) to heat coal, (3) to make acetylene gas from coal, limestone and water. Natural gas serves about 8 per cent of the fuel in the United States at the present time and will last about 50 years before the supply is exhausted.—Dr. Elder.

QUESTION. Where is Halley's comet?

ANSWER. Halley's comet is that spectacular comet which returns about every 75 years. It was last seen in 1910 and is due to be visible again in 1985 and 1986. We have records of its periodical return every 75 years for as far back as 240 B. C.

When the comet was visible here in 1910 astronomers watched it for two years and from those observations could calculate accurately the path that is was following. At present it is still going away from the sun and is out beyond the orbit of the planet Neptune. It is now about 3,000,000,000 miles away and it will continue to go out away from the sun until 1948. Then it will start coming back again.—Dr. William R. Fredrickson, physicist.

QUESTION. What does the earth rest on?

ANSWER. The earth does not rest on anything. The earth revolves in space. That gives us our day and night It also revolves about the Sun in a path that is just about a good circle. It is held in this path by the attraction between the earth and the sun.

The sun also is not resting on anything but is traveling through space carrying the earth and all parts of the solar sistem with it. —Dr. Fredrickson.

QUESTION. Is the hummingbird a bird and can it walk?

ANSWER. The hummingbird is by all means a bird. It is one of the smallest birds we have. I recently heard it said that it was the only bird that could fly backwards. It has fairly well developed feet and legs and undoubtedly uses them for walking.—Dr. Verlus Lindeman, physiologist.

QUESTION. Why does the bootleg whiskey or white mule made in the mountains have a reputation for being so much more powerful than ordinary whiskey?

ANSWER. From the standpoint of chemistry, I would say that undoubtedly the kick of white mule is due to the impurities in it. We talk about alcohol meaning, of course, ethyl or grain alcohol, but there are many others known to the chemist. For example, there is wood alcohol obtained by the distillation of wood. That is very toxic. A little of it will produce blindness. More of it will kill you.

Also, there are some higher alcohols. A mixture of these is known by the name fusel oil. That is the material which gives white mule its kick. In good whiskey that is refined out.—Dr. Elder.

QUESTION. Does a metal with a soft and polished surface conduct and radiate heat faster than one with a dull surface?

ANSWER. No. A polished surface radiates heat slower than a dull surface. The general principle is that a black body is a better radiator of heat than a polished body.—Dr. Fredrickson.

"I want no war, but it would be better for Americans to declare war than to be caught sneaking through the back door by the act of an executive who scorned to consult Congress on his plans."

AROUND THE CORNER

Around the corner I have a friend
In this great city that has no end;
Yet days go by, and weeks rush on,
And before I know it a year has gone,
And I never see my old friend's face,
For Life is a swift and terrible race.
He knows I like him just as well
As in the days when I rang his bell,
And he rang mine. We were younger then,
And now we are busy, tired men:
Tired with playing a foolish game,
Tired with trying to make a name.
"Tomorrow", I say, "I will call on Jim,
Just to show that I'm thinking of him."
But tomorrow comes, and tomorrow goes,
And the distance between us grows and grows.
Around the corner!—yet miles away. . .
"Here's a telegram, sir". . .
"Jim died today".
And that's what we get, and deserve in the end:
Around the corner, a vanished friend.

The death of Stanley Ward Sunday on the bridge construction job here comes as a severe shock to the many who knew him. He could be seen daily riding about town on his motorcycle. And he was always the center of a crowd of which he was a part owing to his good nature and happy-go-lucky nature.

—o—

In that tragedy as in others which have struck this community, there is always a bunch of grandstand critics who tell "what should have been done" after it was done. Many of these critics were observed in the crowds Sunday but they did not offer to assist.

From incidents like this it is easy to understand Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin. They were doers while others were standing about talking. And the same is fast becoming true in America, where "doers" are at a premium and "talkers" are multiplying by the millions.

It is not a wise policy to use an oiled mop on waxed floors, as the oil softens wax. Waxed floors should be swept with a mop or soft brush entirely free from oil.

Serve Spiced Grapes With Meat and Game Dishes

Our wealth of grapes should be hoarded for the long winter nights. They go well with meat, fowl and game and have a wonderful tang. Remember, the fresh grape flavor is better preserved if the batch is small. However, the entire amount of grape juice can be handled at one time.

* * *

Missouri Spiced Grape Jelly

4 quarts (6½ lbs.) prepared Concord grapes
1½ cups cider vinegar
4 sticks (4-in.) cinnamon
4½ tsps. whole cloves
Sugar
½ tsp. salt.

Wash and stem about 6 pounds under ripe grapes. Weigh or measure two kettles and crush; add vinegar and spices. Bring to a boil and simmer, about ten minutes, or until grapes are soft.

Drain through jelly bag. Measure. Add 2/3 cup sugar for each cup juice. Add salt and mix thoroughly.

Divide into two approximately equal portions, placing in separate preserving kettles. Bring to full boil, stirring only until sugar is dissolved. Boil rapidly about 10 minutes, or until jelly sheets from edge of spoon. Remove from fire and skim. Pour immediately into hot, clean sterilized glasses and paraffin at once.

To prevent formation of cream of tartar crystals in the finished jelly, let the extracted juice stand overnight in cold place. Next morning carefully dip out the juice and re-strain it through a jelly bag. The crystals remain with the sediment on bottom and side of the container.

Spiced Grape Jam

4½ cups prepared fruit
7 cups sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin
Cinnamon, allspice, ginger

To prepare fruit: Slip skins from about 3 pounds fully ripe grapes. Bring pulp to boil and simmer, covered, five minutes. Remove seeds by sieving. Chop or grind skins and add to pulp. Add ¼ to 1 teaspoon each of cinnamon, allspice and ginger.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into a large kettle and mix well. Bring to full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard one minute. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin, skim; pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once.

AMERICANS LIKE CHOP SUEY

How about going oriental and serving some Chinese Chop Suey tonight?

This recipe serves six generously.

Chinese Chop Suey

One pound fresh pork tenderloin (or veal cutlet or round steak), 3 tbsps. salad oil, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 medium onions, sliced, 1 cup shredded green pepper, 1 cup (¼ pound) sliced mushrooms, 1 cup shredded celery, 1 cup shredded Chinese cabbage, 4 cups stock or bouillon cubes dissolved in 4 cups boiling water, 1 No. 2 can bean sprouts, 2 tbsps cornstarch, 1 tbsp. cold water, 2 tbsps Soy sauce, 1 tbsp. sugar.

Cucumber Mayonnaise

¾ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
½ tsp. salt
3 tbsps. finely grated cucumber
⅛ tsp. Tabasco sauce
1 tsp. grated onion

Blend mayonnaise and seasonings. Add cucumber. Use immediately for best flavor. Use as dressing for potato, egg, lamb, veal, chicken, vegetable, fish or seafood salads, or in meat or fish sandwich fillings. Serve with jellied veal or salmon loaf. Approximate yield: 1 cup dressing.

Many like the flavor of chutney but do not like it as a relish, and that's where chutney mayonnaise rises to the occasion, providing the popular flavor but not too distinctly. It's also an excellent dressing to keep on hand to vary your favorite salads. Just store the amount you make with the following recipe in a covered jar in the refrigerator to be used as needed.

* * *

Chutney Mayonnaise

3 cups mayonnaise or salad dressing
3 tsps. chopped chutney.

Combine ingredients, store in covered jar in refrigerator and use as needed. Use as dressing for potato, cabbage, chicken, ham, lamb, shrimp, mixed vegetable, tomato, or fruit salad.

For a "south of the border" tang that will add new life to your potato, meat, vegetable and seafood salads, there is Mexican mayonnaise that isn't only a salad dressing but a spicy mixture for deviled eggs, sandwich or canape mixture and a snappy sauce for seafood cocktails. Here's how you do it:

* * *

Mexican Mayonnaise

¾ cup mayonnaise
1½ tsps. chili powder
1½ tsps. grated onion
3 tbsps. minced green pepper

Combine all ingredients in covered jar and use as needed. Approximate yield: 1 cup mayonnaise.

WELSH RAREBIT PERFECT SNACK

⅔ cup butter
1 cup flour
3 pints milk
1¼ tsps. salt
¼ tsp. white pepper
⅛ tsp. cayenne
¼ tsp. dry mustard
3 tsps. Worcestershire sauce
¾ lb. sharp American cheese
12 slices toast

Melt butter, add flour and stir to paste. Gradually stir in milk, add seasonings, and continue to stir. Cook until smooth and free of starch flavor. Cut cheese into very small pieces and add to sauce, continuing to stir until all cheese is melted. Pour over hot toast.

Beauty is Every Woman's Keen Desire

Nature's greatest gift is a generous portion of feminine loveliness. Potentially, every woman can be attractive. Cruel circumstances have often been the means of limited personal attraction, and on the contrary huge sums of money, attention and cosmetics would never serve to lift some to the naive.

Present-day beauty treatments, hair-dress and the like make it possible for every woman to wear her full share of thrill.

A woman doesn't have to be very smart to realize that she must do everything possible to keep in step with the modern parade. But certain "musts" appear to be to much bother, especially the simple matter of keeping muscles resilient and firm, carrying herself as a spirited healthy woman should. She can close her eyes when the cream puffs are passed; she can spend hours in reducing emporiums. But to pull herself up, keep her chest lifted, breathe properly and step lightly—all that's just too much of a chore.

Beautifying is an all round occupation. It's not much good having a trim waistline and beautiful arms and shapely shoulders if the face is lemonated. Many a sweet little dolly whose features are well nigh perfect is handicapped by an expression of boredom and intolerance.

New Fall Coats Feature Silhouette

This season's revolutionary silhouette trend is nowhere more evident than in the department of the dressy coat, be it fur, furred or furless.

For the emphasis is on the figure-following, reed-slender moulding of fine fabrics and furs for every-day wear. Gone are the built-out, thickly padded shoulders, useful as they were for diminishing by comparison a too-heavy hip line. Instead, the shoulders are smooth and easily fitted. Only the sleeves are on the generous side, and any other suggestion of fullness is in the center front, or by way of a bloused back.

Fur is being used generously for that front fullness of the new coats, and here and there and everywhere, we see dabs of it—on hems, pockets, cuffs—and oftener than ever, as muffs.

Coat fabrics are finer this year than they have ever been and are most popular in colors, which can carry a simple coat in some interesting texture and make it a head-turning affair anywhere. Persian red and volney, a ruddy grape tone, are new and glowing for Autumn.

Leopard reigns supreme in the fur coats in a sudden burst of popularity, not however, that it is expected to eclipse mink as an all-round favorite. Wolf, bleached to a lovely tan, called "polo" has lost its savage look in a three-quarter coat especially designed for young girls, and within the limits of their budgets.

Woolens Available For Modish Girls

If there's a lingering fear in your mind that, because of England's beleaguerment America will want for excellent woolens this year—uproot the idea.

For women's street costumes, the business girl's pet lightweight frock, the school girl's facorite rabbits' hair dress—all are being produced in American textiles that, as well as heavier materials, are being deemed "as good as any in the world" by authorities.

Dressier wool frocks appeal to the older woman, who prefers them for casual town-and-country wear. New for her are the novelty ribbed fabrics, seen in stores here in tones of blue and fandango, in nutria and beaver, especially tinted to go with those furs and in Indian clay.

One of the handsomest outfits seen of the type that can be successfully worn out of town and in, was a dress of faint sandtan-tinted cashmere, worn under an easy swinging wrap of lustrous corduroy in benedictine. Draped aprons are used with excellent effectiveness on jersies—but only for the willowy figure.

But to the college girl, who loves to look ultra-sauve in a comfortable manner when off for a football week-end, wool sport dresses seem to mean the most. She's favored this year with fine wool jersey in a brilliant, eye-catching red, with which she usually likes to combine beige. Her workin' gal sister likes jersey, too, but is happy to find that a really scoty black (wonderful with a mink coat, if you can find one around) is obtainable this fall. A chic member of the Class of '41 is apt to choose her new rabbits' hair dress with an eye to campus-into-career, and to make it one of the slim and sophisticated numbers.

Apart from woolens, an absolute "must" for collegiennes this September seems to be a cotton corduroy jumper, or pinafore, as they used to be called. Most favored is the fine-wale corduroy model (buttoned down the back,) with gabardine and covert cloth running nip and tuck for second place. These, of course, have called for the return of the shirtwaist, so here it comes, fashioned (the whole shirt, naturally!) of admirably light flannel. Long-sleeved sweater, however, may be used.

And no matter what age you are—if you're a sleepyhead late riser who usually arrives everywhere late, half-frozen and half dressed on cold mornings—try a soldier blue cashmere dress that fastens with a front zipper and a single snap at the belt. It needs no slip, and is as warm as it looks.

Cornell Asks For Health Inventory

Cornell University is going to find out how often its students bathe and brush their teeth.

A health-habit inventory will be taken this fall of each entering student as part of an expanded health program which includes medical examination and care and additional intramural sports.

The student also must supply information on 38 diseases, noting when and if he contracted any of them. Other questions included on the inventory card are:

"Do you use alcohol?"
"Do you use tobacco?"
"If you use tea or coffee, how many cups per day?"
"Do you chew your food well?"
"Do your gums bleed easily?"
"How much time do you spend at a meal?"
"Are meals regular?"
"Do you eat vegetables twice daily?"
"Do you sleep well?"
"What exercise do you take and hours per week?"

The medical examinations will be given students again in their senior year, the examiners noting what progress has been made, what defects remain and advising steps to be taken to maintain good health.

University authorities explained that it is "more important than ever" for young men and women to be equipped with a "sound vitality".

ADDISON IN 1857

The straggling village called Addison as it appeared in 1857 is shown on a picture in the window of the L. A. Taylor store. The picture has been on display for the past two weeks. The Erie Railroad and its predecessors were not operating through here at the time for they are not shown in the picture. In fact, as far as can be learned, there are no buildings in the village at the present time which were standing at that time. The unusual picture came to light recently among many other relics of an older Addison. At one time according to some of the older records, Addison had a population of over 3,000 people.

Lest The People Forget —

The preset Addison river bridge which is about to be replaced, was built in the late fall and early winter of 1892-'93 and at that time was supposed to be a masterpiece of strength. Now after 48 years, it is necessary to replace it by a still stronger and more massive one. Thus do times change. And we'll change too in another fifty years!

New Troops In Egypt From Britain

A fleet of British transports reached an Egyptian port last week and unloaded thousands of troops on the sun-baked quays to augment the British fighting forces in the middle East. It is reported from Cairo that this was the biggest convoy ever to reach Egypt.

In addition to ground troops, there were many Australian airmen, hundreds of nurses from England and Scotland and heavy reinforcements for the navy and the Royal Air Force. An uneventful voyage from England was reported, with not a single Italian warship sighted. Many of the troops boarded trains immediately after disembarking for their new posts in Palestine and other middle East areas, after receiving a hearty welcome from Lieut.-Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander of the Middle East forces.

Cornell Eleven Boasts 22 Lettermen to Start 1940 Drills

Ithaca, Sept. 13—A group of fifty-odd well-conditioned athletes under the tutelage of Head Coach Carl G. Snavely and his staff of competent assistants, has begun practice for the 1940 Cornell University football season. With the exception of a few of last year's junior varsity all hands have reported and have dug in to wage spirited battles for varsity positions.

Trainer Frank Kavanagh stated on Wednesday at the initial practice that these boys came back in the best shape of any squad he has had in three years at Cornell. Many members have grown, both in size and weight, and few returned burdened with excess poundage.

There will be two practice sessions each day, except Sunday, from now until school begins on September 23. Most of the stress will be put on fundamentals until then but Coach Snavely has said that hard work will begin immediately. Blocking drills will play an important part in these pre-season work-outs. The opening practice saw the squad divide into pairs for work in blocking positions. This will go on all fall with actual blocks taking the place of the drills after a few days.

Among the backfield candidates accent will be placed upon ball-handling. Much time will be spent in spinning, pivoting and passing. Getting out of line will take up much of the linemen's time.

Vince Eichler, 1939 captain, who had to drop out of school because of an injury and subsequent operation, reported fit and ready for action after a summer of tournament tennis in Utica, his home. He will have a hard time regaining his fullback position from Mort Landsberg, fiery 186-pounder, who stepped from the fourth team ranks to the varsity last year and became one of the outstanding backs in the East.

While Coach Snavely has refused to name any definite teams as yet, it is expected that the first two clubs will be made up wholly of veterans and almost entirely of seniors. Twenty lettermen have returned, all but two of them seniors.

In kicking practice Phil Goldenberg, big sophomore fullback from Hartford, Conn., has been rivaling the veterans, Hal McCullough, Bill Murphy, Lou Bufalino and Swifty Borhman, with his lengthy boots. Walt Scholl, diminutive senior halfback, whose passing and running exploits sparkled last season, has been threading the needle with his tosses again this fall and all the passers have been hitting the mark well for so early.

A limited number of sturdy sophomores, while they probably will not break into the starting line-up, may provide the reserve strength that is one of Snavely's problems this year. They have been assured by Coach Snavely that all positions on the varsity are open, however, and all of them will be given a chance to make good.

Tentative first two teams on pre-season ratings are:

Team one — Hershey, LE; West, LT; Dunbar, LG; Finneran, C; Conti, RG; Drahos, RT; Kelley, RE; Matuszczak, QB; Murphy, HB; McCullough, HB; Lansberg, FB.

Team two—Schmuck, LE; Blasko LT; Wolff, LG; Stimson, C; Cohn, RG; Christensen, RT; Jenkins, RE; Ruddy, QB, Scholl, Bufalino, HB; Borhman, HB; Eichler, FB.

Conscripts Must Register Oct. 16 for Draft

Young men between the ages of 21 and 35 inclusive will register Wednesday, October 16 throughout the nation. In keeping with this national registration for national conscription it is expected that there will be several eligible from this vicinity.

Corning will be the draft board headquarters for Addison, Erwin, Caton, Lindley, Rathbone and Tuscarora. The mechanics of the draft were made known to the Steuben County Election Commissioners Elisha Paddock and R. Walter Lander at a conference in Albany recently at which Governor Lehman outlined the state plans.

The draft boards in the various communities will be civilians and not members of the Reserve Corps or National Gurd units.

There will be three classifications of the youths between the ages mentioned. There will be those with dependents, those physically unable to serve and other causes for rejection. However every man who registers will receive a card to show that he is registered. It is expected that about 30,000 will register in Steuben County and vicinity.

When the lists are in, each registrant will have a number. These will be sent to Washington and there numbers will be drawn. The youths with corresponding numbers will be conscripted for one year. If they have been rejected for any physical or other reason, another youth will serve, to be drawn by lot. Jobs of those taken will be given back to them at the close of their year of training insofar as humanly possible. Companies refusing to grant jobs will be subject to fines or other penalties.

Troopers Warn Drivers on School Bus Law

With the re-opening of school state police warn they intend to launch an intensive drive against motorists who fail to stop when a school bus is halted to take on or discharge passengers.

Numerous complaints have already been received at the Canandaigua substation of motorists who disregard the motor vehicle law designed to protect the lives of school children traveling by bus.

The law requires all motor vehicles to be brought to a complete stop whether passing or meeting a school bus on which children are embarking or dis-embarking and then proceed with caution. All violators will be promptly arrested, officers warn.

The New York Yankees have put on the power and with everyone hitting, especially among the big guns, the team jumped from a mid-season fourth place and when this was written were only a game behind the league-leading Cleveland team. Detroit is in second place by such a narrow margin that the scorers find it hard to mark the difference.

APPROVED DRAFT BILL PROVIDES

For the registration of all males between 21 and 35 years old inclusive. This is expected to yield 16,500,000 men

Limits the number of draftees to 900,000 in training for the army at any one period in peacetime.

Exempts or defers ministers, theological students, men in essential occupations, men with dependents, legislative, executive and judicial officers, and conscientious objectors, but makes the latter liable for non-combatant service.

Provides that draftees shall be paid $21 a month for the first four months, and thereafter the basic army pay of $30 a month, with opportunities for advancement.

Registration date to be set by proclamation of the President, probably early in October. Registration to be carried out by local election officials.

First draftees, numbering 75,000, to be called up in mid-November, to be increased to 400,000 early in January, 1941. As men are mustered out after a year's service, new men are to be called. Under the Army's plan, the drafting is to go on for five years, the time provided in the bill, when 4,500,000 will have been trained.

Permits the use of draftees anywhere in the Western Hemisphere, United States possessions outside the Western Hemisphere, and the Philippines.

Re-employment—the bill mandates civilian employers to re-employ drafted employees at the conclusion of their year of service.

Ayres Cites Slow Pace In Defense

Army expenditures accelerated 28 times faster in 1917's first five war months than in a corresponding period of 1940, says Col. Leonard P. Ayres.

Asserting that records of actual expenditures "are much better guides for comparing the relative progresses of our preparedness efforts than reports of appropriations made or of contracts placed", he said.

"Clearly no such increasing momentum is under way at present.

Col. Ayres, chief statistician of the American Expeditionary Force, said a study of the United States World War effort led to this "best rough estimate".

"Military rearmament is a process that takes us about two and one-half years, if we devote to it the almost fierce energy and nearly universal cooperation that characterized our military effort in the World War."

BRITISH RELIEF GETS $12,000 GIFT

The United Fruit Company of Boston recently voted a gift of $12,000 to the British War Relief Society, for the purchase of linen and enamelware for 300 hospital beds in Great Britain.

Mel Ott, New York Giants third baseman has hit 378 home runs in the past 15 years for more than any National League ball player.

Registered hospitals in the United States now have about 1,200,000 beds available for patients.

Driver's seat in the September drive in this year's redhot National League pennant race belongs to the Cincinnati Reds beyond all argument. The champs earned it by the most consistently brilliant all-around play the senior major league has witnessed for many a long year. It's been exactly 28 years by the calendar since any National League outfit spreadeagled its field as far as the Reds did in winning 59 of their first 84 games of the season. Their 84th was the last item of a seven-game winning streak. Right after that came their only slump of the year. They lost eight of their next twelve before striking stride again.

New Developments Told in Pamphlet

Recognizing that many changes in design, use of materials, and methods of construction are being proposed, some of which may be extensively used in future construction, the Technical Division of the Federal Housing Administration has undertaken to accumulate information concerning new developments in the construction of homes. A report on the date it has complied has recently been issued in the form of a revision of its technical bulletin, "Recent Developments in Dwelling Construction".

The bulletin summarizes recent developments in dwelling construction as follows:

1. The approach which is being made to the problem of better construction at lowered costs and an evaluation of the work which has been done, together with tentative conclusions as to its probable effect on the dwelling market.

2. Brief descriptions of the different materials and methods of construction which are being tried out, together with lists of the individuals and concerns who have been engaged in such work.

The bulletin is available to the public and may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., at a price of five cents.

When I look for the best in my brother, I not only am more apt to find it but, by my confidence, I help to create it.

Things worth while come high. If we would prosper, we must be willing to pay the price of success in honest effort.

Price Advance in Meats Not Justified

The supply of homegrown fruits and vegetables received on the Buffalo wholesale produce market this season has been the lightest in five years. A similar condition prevails in the wholesale sources of supply available to Corning retailers.

The cool weather is responsible for many crops being smaller and later than usual. The State Department of Agriculture and Markets declares that all vegetable crops made slow progress because of warmth deficiency. Especially hard hit in this end of the state were peas, string beans, corn, cucumbers and melons.

Reasons for the sharp advances in meat prices are uncertain, according to official sources, and perhaps unjustified. The U. S. Government inspectors in Buffalo stockyards claim that any further rise in retail prices at this time would not be in line with trends at the yards. In fact the price paid for cattle, hogs, lambs and vealers dropped from 25c to a dollar a hundred. Only the "upper crust" of cattle showed any advance, and there is so few of that class of beef, it rarely reaches the retail butcher anyhow.

A report from Washington says that recent increases in retail meat prices in various parts of the country "are being investigated".

German Plane Loss Placed at 2,168

An official British tabulation puts at 2,168 the number of German planes shot down by the RAF and anti-aircraft fire over the British Isles up to Tuesday.

British fighting planes lost in the same area numbered 553 and of the British pilots shot down 259 escaped alive, according to this compilation.

The highest day's figure previous to Sunday was 180 German planes claimed for Aug. 15.

The high for last week was September 11, when the British claimed 92 German planes against 30 of their own, and a total of 171 for the week against losses of 60.

(Germany claimed to have destroyed 184 British planes last week and to have lost 51. Germany's high day for the week also was Sept. 11, when she claimed 80 British planes shot down against 20 Nazi ships. Her highest claim for one day since the heavy raids began was 182 on Aug. 18.

Deserted Convicts Roam Devil's Island Prison of Horror

DEVIL'S ISLAND, the most infamous penal colony in the history of modern days, appears to have been deserted by war-torn France which no longer sends supply ships to or provides funds for the mainten ance of this prison of horrors, located on an island off the coast of South America, and a part of French Guiana.

As a result of this negligence of the mother country, the former cruel and barbarous guards, now long unpaid, have gone soft and make no attempt to maintain discipline. France sent some political prisoners to Devil's Island but, for the most part, its population of about 5,000 inmates, many of whom are now lepers, represented the most hardened and vicious criminals of all France. These desperate creatures have been turned loose to roam the island in search of food which they get by the most primitive means.

Those fortunate enough to obtain, as they may, necessary money, supplies and equipment, are free to leave the penal colony for any part of the world. Their less fortunate fellows remain behind to lie and rot slowly of starvation under the pitiless rays of the tropical sun.

These startling disclosures were made by eight Devil's Island convicts who sailed into Miami, Florida last week in a 30-foot open boat, the tiny sloop Fortune, obtained at Port of Spain from British authorities, after a perilous voyage in an open canoe, marked the luck of a Sinbad.

Included in this group, now held in custody at Miami pending action by the United States Immigration authorities, is an assortment of life's unquiet dregs which France shuffled off into society's discard for their habitual criminal acts.

Their stories of brutality and near starvation while France kept sending supplies and appropriating funds for the prison upkeep is an old one—often told in story and dramatized by the films—but their tales of life in the snake-infested swamps and disease-ridden area which is the penal colony, reeks with new horror that is a shock even to a civilization hardened to the horrifying war news coming in the wake of senseless bombing of residential sections of Britain.

That fact is frequently much stranger than fiction is proven by the tales told by these eight men who have found a temporary haven in the bullpen of a clean American jail. They tell from first hand knowledge of terror and violence, filth and slime, starvation and death on this tropical island of swamps, where the only footpath is paved with the broken bones of the bitter and desperate men of servitude who built it. And where now 5,000 stark-mad humans roam its fastnesses in search of food—and hope for a freedom that is like a mirage.

Here is what a confessed murder from Lyons, France, sent to Devil's Island in 1938 had to say, who claims he came to the home of his fiance one night in 1938 and found the girl of his choice in the arms of a trusted friend. He saw red, he says and he pressed the trigger of the pistol he was in the habit of carrying and left her lifeless body on the floor. The arm of the law gathered him in and hustled him off to Devil's Island.

"Since France no longer cares what becomes of the poor creatures on her Devil's Island, all Hell has broken loose. I've seen giant guards, bitter too because France has forgotten to pay their salaries, open dungeons which long have housed desperate men. I've seen them kick the naked creatures into the daylight where the bright tropical sun has blinded eyes seeing sunlight for the first time in many years.

"Most of them rave like madmen, and some groping in the pitch darkness of blindness, stumble into bottomless marshes which quickly snuff out the little of life left in their poor frames. Others are less fortunate. They roam the island for days, crying piteously for food to anyone who will listen. They either finally lie down from sheer exhaustion to die, or charitable fellow prisoners, tired of the hideous sight, carry them to the water's edge and feed them to the ever-hungry sharks".

These eight pooled their money when they reached the coast, bought a canoe from a native and sailed for Trinidad. Let one of them tell the story:

"After 11 days in a fragile canoe in the open sea, we reached Port of Spain where British officials, sympathetic to our cause, permitted us to remain for a few days, and then launched us on our way in a 30-foot sloop equipped with provisions for a 12-day trip. Seven days later we reached Arroyo, Puerto Rico, where we were permitted a three day rest, when we sailed for Miami. In spite of storms of near hurricane violence which repeatedly came within inches of capsizing us, we finally made port."

"To live creatively and for purposeful ends lifts mankind to those high levels that link his life with that of God".

POLITICAL —

Wendell Willkie in his first prepared speech of the September campaign struck sharply at the President's policies. At Coffeyville, Kan., where he once taught school the Republican nominee charged Mr. Roosevelt was in a great degree responsible for the collapse of Europe into war because he "torpedoed" the London Economic Conference in 1933. Willkie said the President was not willing to take the American people into his confidence—would not trust them while the New Deal "intelligentsia" regarded the people as "too dumb".

* * *

In a series of extemporaneous speeches in Chicago Saturday Willkie warned the Kelly-Nash gangs and other political bosses he would give them no rest if elected President. He said, "I do not believe that corruption can sway the vote in the big cities—that an entrenched bureaucracy with billions of dollars to spend can influence an election.

September Ushers in Many Old Favorites

The month of September marks the beginning of new eras in the lives of all. It brings school opening with its social and athletic outlets; it denotes the time when new college entrants are on the alert for ways and means of making themselves known about the campus; it begins a new routine for the "old" student and his or her return to familiar scenes; the sunset of summer sports and the curtain raiser on football; hunting and the open field for those devotees; the gradual scene shifting of nature from its rich and glowing greens to the varied riot of fall foliage.

But to those who look to menus, instead of waist-lines, it means the return of the succulent clam—and clambakes. And where is there a man, or woman, with "soul so dead" who does not dote on the informal enjoyment of a grand clam bake? It really notes the return to love of life, and on every side there is someone with tickets for a coming "bake". Just to talk of it makes the mouth water and the stomach twitch with desire.

Surely September is one of the grandest months of the year, with a routine that has attraction for all ages, shapes, sizes and ambitions.

Brooklyn is eight games behind Cincinnati in the National League with the Giants in fifth place or leading the second division for the first time in many years.

Waterloo Bridge At Avon Theatre

Here is a tragic love story backgrounded against the period of the first World War with Robert Taylor off to war again in 1940, pausing on Waterloo Bridge, to recount and mentally re-live the past which reflects a whirlwind courtship with Vivien Leigh and a sudden change in military orders causing him to leave for the front before their marriage.

The story, in retrospect shows Vivien's discovery of Robert's name on the death list, and she takes the downward path. Robert returns a year later and she sees a bright ray of hope. But rather than disillusion him she walks into an air raid and self destruction.

While the film definitely strikes a sombre mood, it is excellently produced and the preview showing kept the women busy with their handkerchiefs. Vivien Leigh and Robert Taylor give excellent performances and the entire supporting cast is way above par. Marquee names should help its timely presentation with the current world conflict and should bolster attendance. In previous performances audience reaction was very good.

American Health Holds Up Despite Depression

That unemployment and depression fail to adversely affect American health is the contention of statistical bulletin issued by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Death claims during the first six months of 1940 were the lowest in number on record, both in the United States and Canada. Early in the 1930's it was anticipated that the most severe industrial depression of a generation would bring an increased death rate. This did not happen, in fact each successive year has shown a more favorable mortality rate than obtained during any year of the previous decade.

(Such statistics, obviously, do not contemplate what has been the experience of the thousands of policyholders who have been forced by necessity to lapse their policies).

Byrd Says South Polar Region Once Tropical

Such an authority as Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd recently stated his belief that Antartica, some millions of years ago had a tropical climate, and that it will be habitable again some millions of years in the future, provided it does not experience another glacial age.

According to Byrd, the Far Southern continent is passing through a glacial age and the ice is slowly diminishing. Patagonian shepherds informed him that the ice and snow are far less now than a generation ago. As the ice diminishes in Antarctica, says Byrd, the temperature will rise gradually through the centuries and possibly the currents which give tropical Chile and Peru their temperate climate will become warmer.

"It is still pretty cold down there" he said, adding that he had recorded temperatures of 80 degrees below zero Fahrenheit there, much colder than the North Polar regions That the ice is 5,000 feet thick at the South Pole has been proved by radio depth detectors.

There is no grass 1,000 miles from Antarctica, Byrd declared. The only permanent resident is the emperor penguin. which hatches its eggs on its webbed feet and under its feathers during the long winter nights. The only summer visitors are whales, wolves and seals.

Byrd said that dynamite blasting revealed evidence of the formation of wood coal on mountain heights, but that it was of very poor quality, like lignite. Copper, silver, and lead deposits were also found.

5½ Million Idle Wait Defense Jobs

A nation-wide survey showed recently 5,500,000 idle workers enrolled and ready for jobs in defense industries.

Sidney Hillman, defense commissioner, said that number—classified by localities and according to individual skills—had been registered to date under a program designed to avert manpower shortage as defense industries expanded.

Soon the pullets will be off the range and in winter quarters. One of the essentials of a comfortable laying house is adequate ventilation and poultrymen should plan for it.

Einstein Decries Personal Gold Doctrine

"Science without religion is lame and religion without science is blind", declared Prof. Albert Einstein in a paper read before the conference of science, philosophy and religion at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

He advised religious teachers to "give up the doctrine of a personal God, that is, give up that source of fear and hope which in the past placed so much power in the hands of priests."

"During the youthful period of mankind's spiritual evolution," he said, "human fantasy created gods in man's image who, by operations of their will were supposed to determine, or at any rate to influence the phenomenal world, and sought to alter the disposition of these gods in his own favor by means of magic and prayer. The idea of God in the religions taught at present is a sublimation of that old conception of the gods."

Einstein asserted that no boy even would deny that "the idea of the existence of an omnipotent and omnibeneficient personal god is able to accord man solace, help and guidance", but added that "there are decisive weakenesses attached to this idea itself, which has been painfully felt since the beginning of history."

If God were omnipotent, Einstein argued, "every occurrence, including every human action and every human thought, feeling and aspiration, is His work. How is it possible to think of holding men responsible for their deeds and thoughts before such an Almighty being?" he asked.

Gold's Function in Next Post-War Period

That the United States will have to put it's huge stock of gold back into circulation by buying German and Italian goods after the war, or that gold will be abandoned as a medium of exchange in world trade is the opinion of Count Volti Di Misurata, leading Italian financial expert.

Writing in Il Popolo D'Italia, Mussolini's newspaper, Di Misurata outlined plans of the Axis powers for post-war economy. "Either the present holders of gold will adapt themselves to the new system and allow its return to circulation gradually by increasing their purchases in our markets, thus allowing it again to fulfill its natural function of regulating trade, "the count wrote, or "within the new European economy it will be eliminated sooner or later."

RARE ITEM IN TRASH PILE —

When the American House, Pittsfield, Mass., was closed years ago, Luigi Bearzi found a copy of a newspaper which now proves to be a collector's item. The "Constellation", described by its editor as "The Great Wonder of the Age. The Masterdon of Newspapers. Published One in 100 Years", measures almost 6 feet by 8 feet. It was published July 4, 1859 by George Roberts of Boston. Only one edition was printed, and of that edition there exists but sixteen copies besides the one owned by Bearzi. The "Constellation" has thirteen columns of type to the page. On the front page are pictures of President Buchanan, General Jackson at New Orleans, Commodore Perry at Lake Erie and Stephen Decatur burning the Philadelphia.

MILK—Penny-a-Glass

Starting October 1, New York City schools plan to sell milk to pupils for a penny a glass-a-half-pint. The new plan has been worked out by the Board of Education, according to Dr. Harold G. Campbell, Superintendent of Schools, in cooperation with Mayor LaGuardia and surplus commodities officials. The Federal government will subsidize the distributors, paying them the difference between the penny collected from the children and the regular price of the milk.

30,000 quarts of free milk per day are now provided by the Board of Education as a part of its emergency relief program. The new plan will be operative in 120 elementary, eighty high and twenty junior high schools.

"We shall persevere along our course however the wind may blow". —Prime Minister Winston Churchill

"If Congress would go along with me, I would support a plan for a revolving fund to encourage public, as well as private plants, to build additional rural electric lines with rates subject to government regulation."

Corning Man A Suicide

August H. Loeven of 200 Princeton Avenue, Corning, was found dead in the basement of his home Tuesday afternoon, with a single barreled shotgun under his body, according to the report of Dr. H. E. Elwood, Jr., made to the police.

A former garage mechanic, Mr. Loeven sustained injuries in a fall while at work in 1936, since which time he had been unable to perform manual labor, had suffered much pain, and had become despondent.

Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Loeven set out to make some purchases at a West Pulteney food store, he asked her to bring a package of cigarets for him. Upon her return after a brief absence, she found her husband's body on the basement floor.

Mr. Loeven was a popular citizen and a loyal supporter of local athletic teams. Prior to his injury he had been employed at Mayor Daniel Stimson' garage, and also at the Keenan Garage on Bridge street The body was released by Dr. Elwood to the Irene Phillips Funeral Home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schaefer of Chicago are visiting the latter's brother, Charles A. Miller and family.
